Local Government is very different to the corporate world. Does any other industry have a body elected from the community that has the final say on many issues? Does any other industry have such a wide range of responsibilities through cats, dogs, community services, aged persons, libraries, roads, swimming pools (public and private) etc etc? Does any other industry have such a vast array of Federal and State legislation imposed upon it?

The LG Professionals WA Induction to Local Government workshop will provide you with a greater understanding of local government in WA. The course content is regularly reviewed and updated in line with changes in the sector. Presented by experienced local government consultants, the workshop runs on a regular basis.

What's it about?

The workshop is designed to provide an overview of Local Government, where it fits into the Australian political scene, what are its primary responsibilities and how is it funded. It will inform participants about how decisions are made, the role of Council and relationships between Elected Members and staff. Participants will appreciate who appoints staff, performance appraisals and they will be given an insight into ethical behaviour.

Who is it for?

The workshop is invaluable for a wide range of people, including employees new to local government, experienced local government employees seeking a refresher on local government trends, best practices and current information, and local government service providers.

The Presenters

Local Government Professionals WA is delighted to advise that it has contracted Steven Tweedie and Chris Liversage to co-present these programs. Steven and Chris have both been around the local Government Industry for a long time. Steven has worked in Local Government, WALGA and a minister's office. In recent years he has undertaken considerable overseas consulting on local government.

Chris has a strong financial background in local government. He previously worked in a diverse range of roles at senior levels, and recently as an advisor to the National Treasury of South Africa on local government management.
